

The Most Dangerous Game

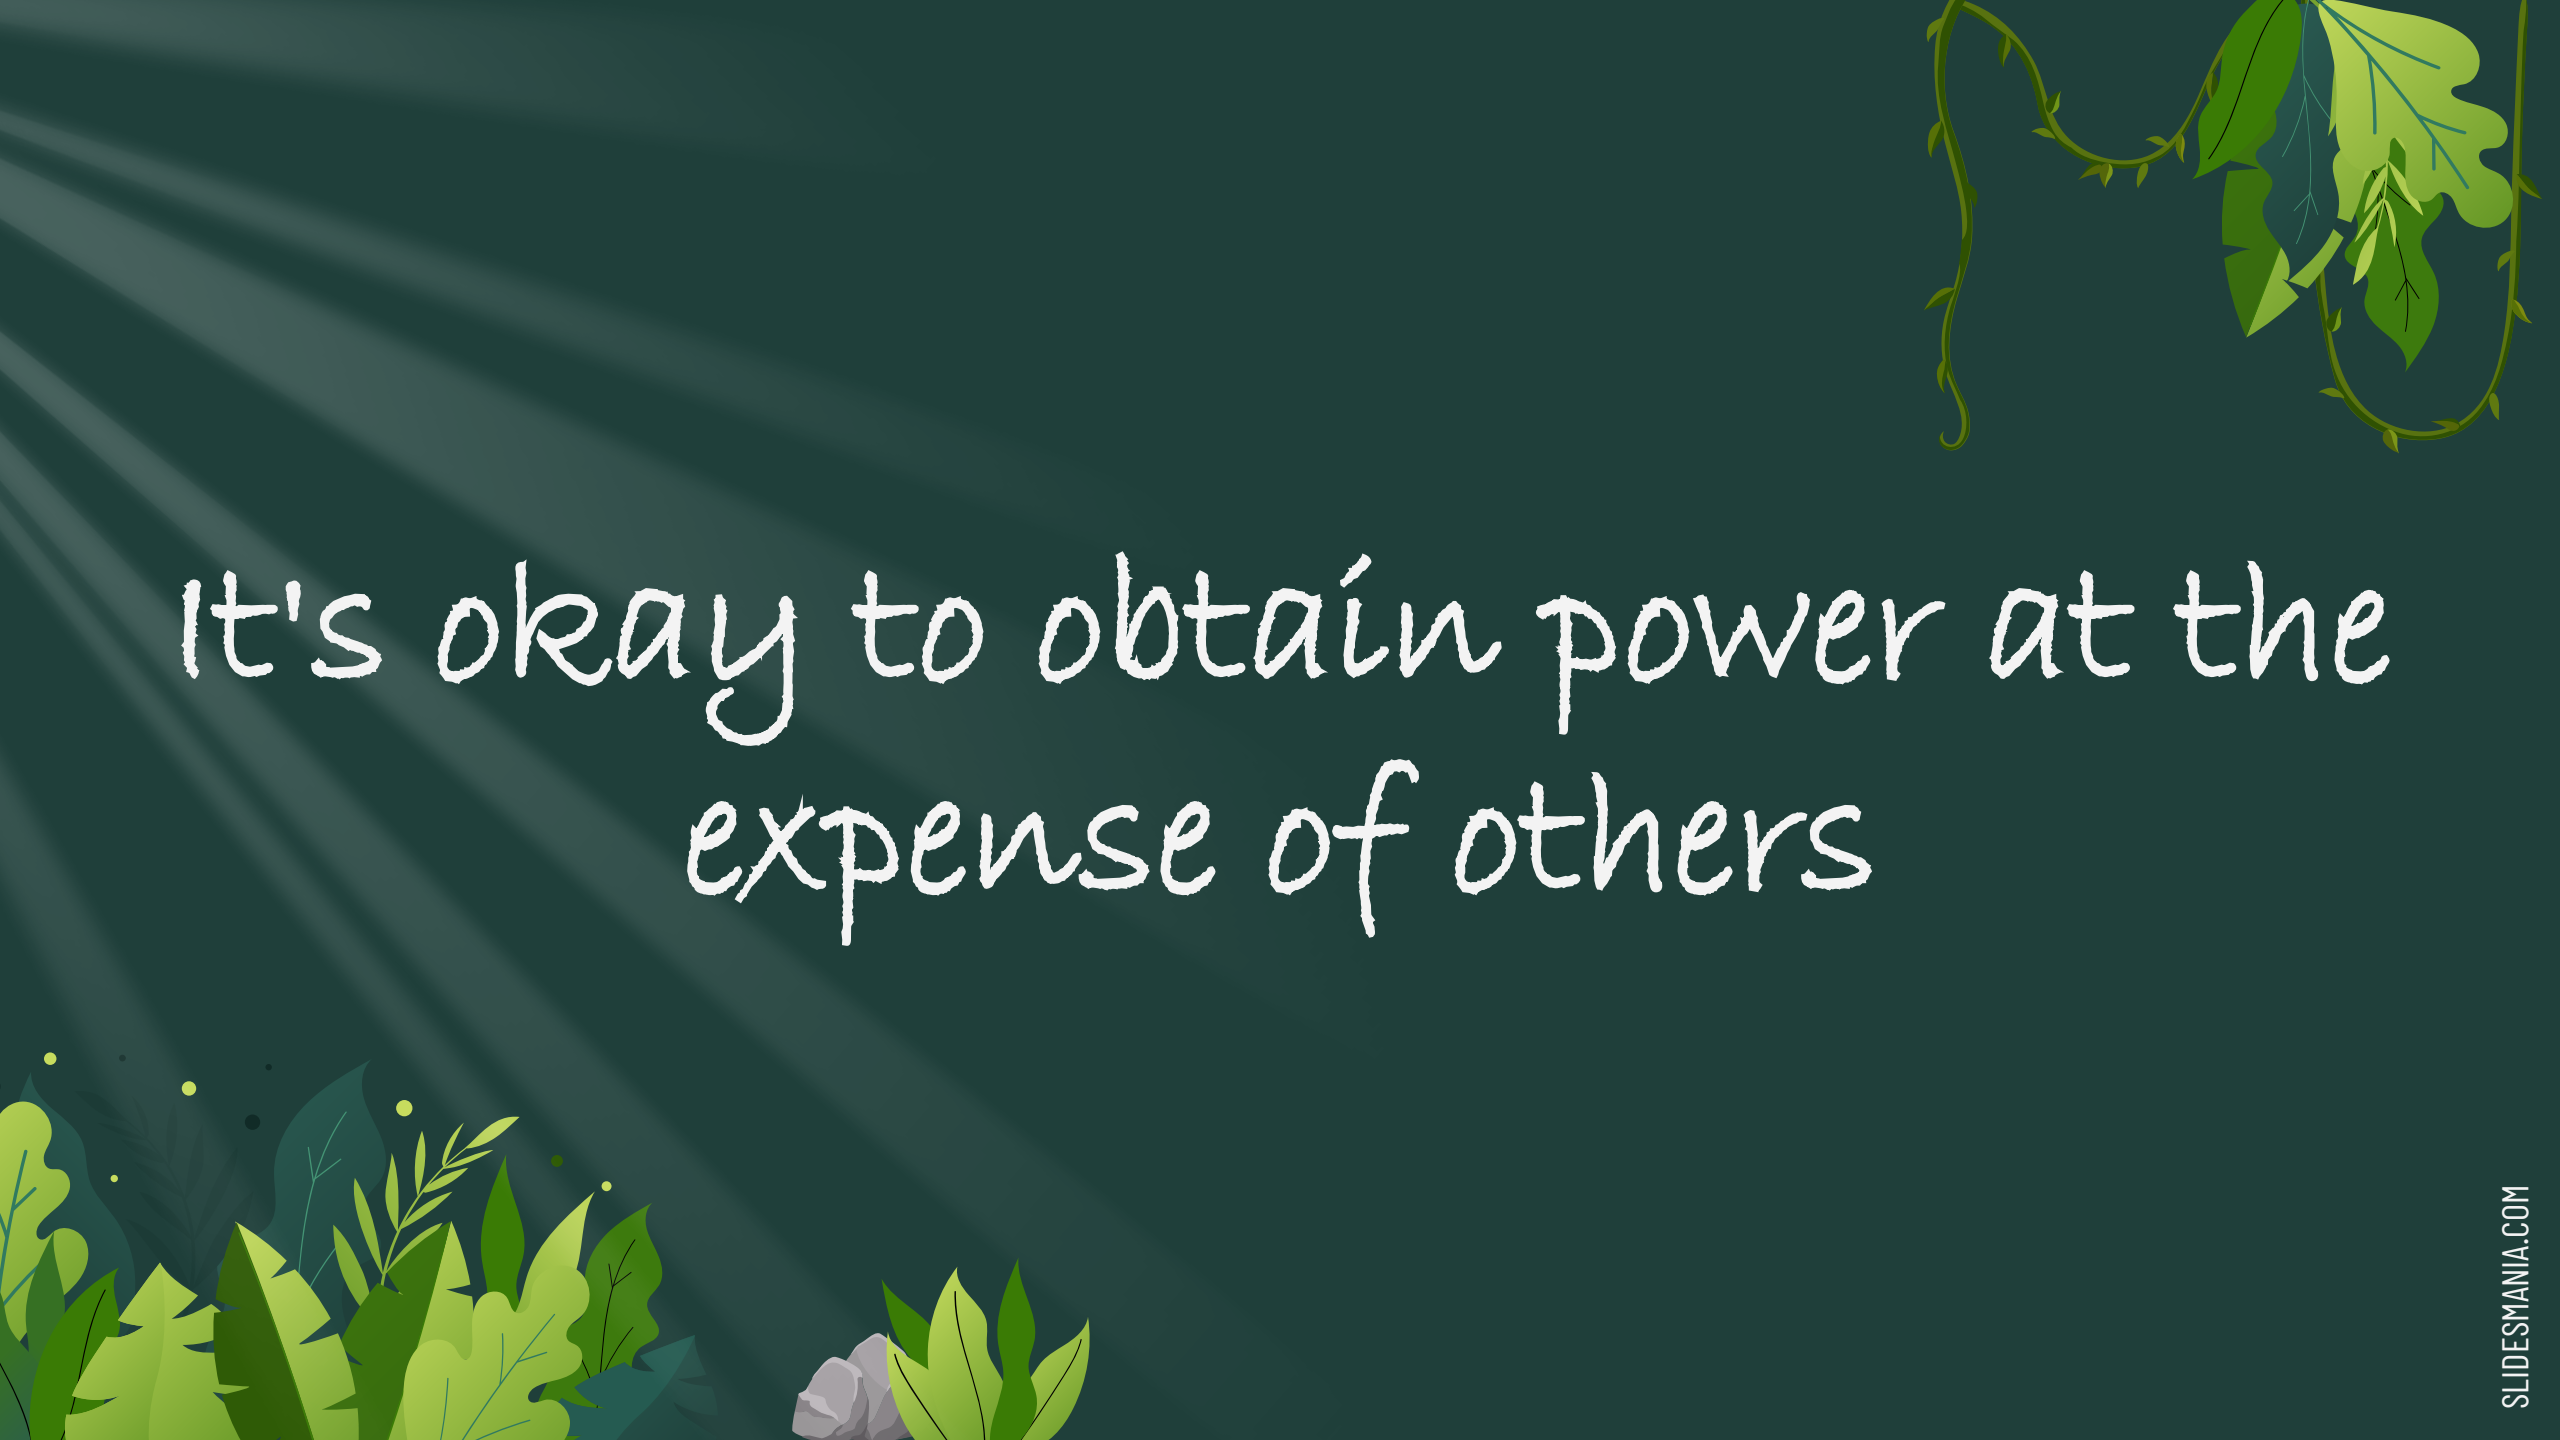

By Richard Connell

Hunting is not a noble sport, but instead cold-blooded murder

It's okay to obtain power at the expense of others

Those who are civilized understand that murder of any kind is wrong

The choices we make are simply a product of nature, not how we are nurtured

Humans are essentially good

The most important quality of an effective leader is manipulation

To believe that society is broken up into different social classes is archaic