Paul Klee, Abstract Artist

His Life

- Paul was born in Switzerland in 1879.
- He was encouraged to be a musician by his father who was a music teacher but Paul mostly loved creating art.
- During his school years Paul would draw in his school books.
- He was both a musician and an artist.

His Work

- Paul loved children's art which inspired his own work.
- He was an abstract artist, which means he made art that looked like nothing seen in real life.
- He loved to use all colors but mainly warm colors. Warm colors are red, orange and yellow.

The Cat and the Bird: Inspired by a Painting by Paul Klee

Paul Klee Video

It's so neat that Paul Klee was inspired by children's art.

Did you know your art could be so inspirational?

What else do you think artists could be inspired by?

What do you see that makes you want to make art?
