

Professional Development Session:

ONGOING ASSESSMENT with the Touch of a BUTTON

Become Confident in:

- Tracking adequate yearly progress (AYP)
- Documenting student achievement on state standards
- Instantly gathering student data
- Generating comprehensive student and school reports
- Applying data to enhance the learning process
- Designing lessons that get 100% student participation
- Getting students motivated and excited about learning again

Using Technology to Ensure No Student is Left Behind

Qwizdom's Professional Development sessions guide teachers in establishing simple and efficient methods of using technology to collect and monitor adequate yearly progress.

During the session, we help you plan classroom management strategies enabling you to implement data driven instruction and ensure student participation. And the best part, you and your colleagues will have fun creating activities that will excite and motivate your students!

Student accountability is of increasing importance under state and federal mandates. Accountability requires consistent data gathering to ensure that no student is left behind; however, with current methods, gathering student data can be very labor intensive.

With the advancement of technology, comprehensive and ongoing assessment can be collected and analyzed seamlessly. Integrating technology into lesson planning and pedagogy ensures that every student's progress and understanding are recorded, graphed, and evaluated.
