

Splendiferous
(adj)

animals, people, music, lakes, shirts, ~~pe~~ rocks, garden of gods, brandy, Magnificent, wonderful, fine, immensely beautiful
The view from the balcony was splendiferous.

Acclaim
(verb)

Elon Musk has acclaimed that his vehicles are the future.
To praise strongly or applaud loudly.
milk & R, Washington, famous, Trumps, religion, veterans, music, sports, country

Imperative
(adj)

It's imperative to put your first and last name on your papers if you want a grade.

Important, needing to be done ASAP

Placate
(verb)

To stop from being angry; to calm
Pacifiers occasionally placate babies.

Consolidation
(Verb)

The fire dwindled after firefighters doused it with water.

To become (or grow) smaller in amount or number.

Incredulous
(adj)

The world was incredulous about the Holocaust until the 1940s.

Doubtful; skeptical

Admonish
(verb)

The coach admonished me for missing practice.

To criticize gently.

Peril
(noun)

-ad-ans

The world witnessed the peril of 9/11. Buck takes a perilous journey in COTW.

Serious, immediate danger

Occasionally
(adv)

Occasionally we get to sit with our friends at lunch.

Resent
(verb)

Humans often resent those who treat them poorly.

Feeling of extreme hatred or bitterness fires, aging, abilities, weather, food supply, stomachs from starvation, Jewish population, overloads

av-ly

preposterous

Mel had an incredulous expression when she heard her name announced as the winner.

not doing chore, preparing rule, eating poison, mistake, friends

-es

-ing

wars, pollution, starvation, dehydration, again no service

money, food, prescription, drugs, treats, promises aging, people, government types, smells, food, mesophobes, creating