Framework:

The Peter J Carril Memorial Scholarship is awarded to a college-bound senior basketball player at Liberty High School, whose effort, achievement, and character most exemplify those qualities which were foundational as well as sustaining throughout Pete Carril's life. Young Pete grew up on East Third St. on Bethlehem's South Side in a single-parent household. His father worked long hours at the steel mill. His older sister Anita, kept an eye on him, while the Bethlehem Boys Club and the Calvo family provided him with the warmth and guidance of a second family. He had a talent for the game of basketball and it would become his one, true passion, eventually earning him a place in the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame. Young Pete went on to attend Liberty High School and do well as a basketball player, developing good skills and work ethic under the tutelage of Coach Joseph Preletz. Pete graduated from Liberty in 1948 and it was Joe Preletz who sent his star player off to nearby Lafayette College with the inspirational poem that Carril would hold onto throughout his entire life. The Man Who Thinks He Can is a poem about tenacity, true grit, and overcoming obstacles against all odds... but most of all, it is a poem about believing in oneself, about never giving up... about making something come true because the belief was there, that one could.
