Principal's Corner

Hi Folks,

On the athletic front, fall sports have ended, and winter sports are about to begin. Our middle school girls' basketball team concludes its season this coming Saturday with a tournament in Basin. They have been a great bunch of kids and have represented our school well. Our high school girls' and boys' basketball seasons begin with the first practice on Nov. 27th. Middle school boys' basketball will begin after Christmas. As always, I encourage kids to come out for athletics and help our small school compete. Research continues to support the advantages for students when they participate in extra-curricular activities.

The state of Wyoming has changed its annual spring assessment. It is no longer called PAWS; now it is called WYTOPP. In preparation for this new assessment, our 3rd through 10th graders will take occasional modular (formative) assessments this fall, winter and spring in preparation for the "big" test toward the end of April, beginning of May. Our students will also be taking one interim test (shortened version of WYTOPP) in February to help them prepare for the state assessment later in the spring. The modular and interim assessments will be used to gauge our readiness for the spring assessment. The actual WYTOPP test in the spring is what will be used by the state (along with attendance, ACT scores, graduation rates, etc.) to help determine our instructional and overall school effectiveness and where our school ranks academically among the other forty seven districts in the state. I hope all of this makes sense.

Regarding assessments, it's always challenging to try to strike the right balance between testing students too much, but yet positioning them to be successful on state and national assessments. I have always believed that effective teachers who base their instructional strategies and curriculum on the standards developed by the state of Wyoming will usually take care of test scores. I look forward to seeing how our students compare, both statewide and nationally, with other students. My expectation will always be that, at a minimum, we continually strive to be in the top 25%. The top 15% is preferable.

I hope you have a nice, relaxing, enjoyable Christmas and I am already looking forward to the spring semester. There is still a lot to be accomplished this school year!

Stop in and visit when you can and let me know how you think we are doing.

Mr. Budmayr

All Conference

Keep learning alive for your child over the winter break

Your child looks at the calendar and imagines the joy of having free time for the whole winter school break. You look at the same blank squares on the calendar and have a mild moment of panic. To keep from hearing "I'm bored" during your child's time off from school, here are some activities that will keep them learning

Make a list of things your family can do together. With your child, look in the local paper or go online to find free events to attend and places to go. Are there museums in your area? Are there free concerts scheduled for this month? Does the public library have special story hours or performances?

Select a movie that is based on a book. After you and your child finish reading the book, watch the movie together. Discuss how the two are alike and how they are different.

Prepare food together. Nearly every culture has some special foods associated with the holiday season. With your child, prepare foods you remember from your childhood. Share your memories. Or do some research and cook a dish you've never tried.

Encourage your child to learn more about the past and your family history by talking with grandparents, aunts, uncles—even you. Help her come up with a list of questions to ask, such as, "What was school like for you when you were my age?" She can record the conversations, write them down, or just listen.

Be specific and involve your child in setting limits

It isn't always easy to discipline your adolescent or get him to follow the rules. After all, it's normal for him to test limits and angle for more freedom.

Still, your child cares very much what you think of him and he wants to please you (even if he doesn't always act like it). In order to behave properly, he needs to know what you expect. When setting limits for your child, be sure to:

- Spell it out. Never assume he knows what's allowed and what's not allowed. Tell your child exactly what you expect. "You must be inside by eight o'clock on school nights. No exceptions."
- Explain why you set the rules you do. You don't need to justify your rules, but do help him understand them. "You can't watch TV all night because it cuts into homework and family time."
- Get his input. If you're planning to modify a rule, let your child add his two cents. "We're considering changing your curfew. What time do you think is reasonable?" You may not follow his suggestion, but hear him out.
- Back off. Once your child has a solid understanding of the house rules, don't nag him about them. Instead, trust that he'll obey them. If he doesn't, be sure to enforce reasonable consequences.

Encourage your teen to use a variety of resources for research

Knowing how to research is a must for high school students. At this point in school, your teen needs more than answers. She needs to know how to find answers.

The internet and the library are great places to start. But your teen should consider going beyond these for major projects.

Help your teen sharpen her research skills by discovering different types of resources. By doing so, she can build interviewing skills, problem-solving skills and creative thinking skills.

- Save newspaper and magazine articles on her topic. Sources of information are often named in the articles. Your teen might even call a reporter. Many are happy to share information and contacts with students.
- Make phone calls or send emails to experts in the field she is researching. To find experts, she can look online or call the public affairs offices of universities and businesses.
- Talk with her teachers and other school staff, such as the librarian. This is a good thing to do once your teen has already collected some materials.

Library Corner

As you may have heard, the Ten Sleep Library is undergoing an expansion. Fox Construction has been taking advantage of the wonderful fall weather that we are all grateful for. Comfortable seating, work tables as well as a computer station and an area for childrens' activities will be part of this expansion.

The meeting room will be a multi-use area for meetings, programs, study groups and the After the Bell program. A separate entrance to the meeting area will be added so the public can utilize the space after the library closes for the day.

There is an abundance of red dirt that has been removed and the foundation is done! We have been watching the progress and taking a lot of pictures.

Have you made a schedule of all the holiday parties you will be attending? We would like to invite you to the Friends of the Ten Sleep Library Christmas Open House and Silent Auction Monday, December 4th from 6:00 to 8:00PM. This holiday celebration is a wonderful time to take a moment and visit with your neighbors and friends and eat some great appetizers and cookies while bidding on unique silent auction items. Bidding will start Monday, November 27th and end at 7:30PM during the open house.

Thursday's December story time with Jessica will be so much fun as they learn about Gingerbread Men on the 7th, explore snow on the 14th and enjoy Christmas Trees the 21st. We start at 10:00AM and will resume after the Christmas holiday on January 5th.

Are you thinking about getting or gifting a tablet or smart phone this year? Come by and learn what's available to download. A reminder to please be sure your device is fully charged before visiting us. After the Bell program is accepting donations of extra candy to decorate gingerbread houses. (leftover Halloween candy would work just fine) The program is also in need of old jeans (8 pair) 15 old t shirts, different sized pinecones, small seashells and artificial flowers for future craft projects. There will not be an After the Bell program during the Christmas/New Years' school break.

Please include the library in your search if your child is missing any winter clothing or a back pack. If you are ordering through Amazon this holiday season, please be sure to use AmazonSmile and choose the "Friends of the Ten Sleep Library" as your charitable organization. AmazonSmile Foundation will donate 0.5% of the purchase price of eligible products to us!

Stop by for new books to read over the holidays. We can also help locate your favorite recipes or find a favorite Christmas story or poem. The Library system will be closed December 23rd through the 26th. Special due dates for materials can be arranged if you are planning to be out of town.

Big/Little Pioneers

Thank you for remembering to save and submit your boxtops for our school. Your efforts raised $47.00 for our school this fall.

Big/Little Pioneers

Little Shoppers will be held at the Ten Sleep Senior Center on Friday, December 1st. Staff and Big Pioneers will accompany Elementary students to do their Christmas shopping.

This activity is sponsored by the Ten Sleep United Methodist Women and is a great opportunity for children to purchase new or nearly new gifts for family members. All gifts are priced at $1.00 or less.

Nurse's Corner

Please be aware that if your child needs to take medication during the school day, the medication (prescription or over the counter) must be brought to the school in the original bottle or packaging. Please do not send any medication to school with your child. This includes but is not limited to vitamins, allergy pills, herbal supplements, any over the counter medication or prescription medication.

A parent or guardian will need to bring the medication to the front office and complete the medication administration form before medications can be administered. Medications will be administered by the school nurse or designated staff member. All medications will be kept in the health office unless the medication is an epinephrine auto injector, inhaler, or insulin that has been prescribed and approved by a physician for the student to "self carry."

Please contact me if you have any questions regarding medications at school. Thank you.

Train YOUR Brain and the BRAIN of Your Loved ones

By: Chawna Wiechmann

In guidance this year, I have been focusing on Growth Mindset and "TRAINING your BRAIN" concepts. I encountered an article that really made some good sense. Please check out the website for the full article. I have attached the "to do" list on ways to help engage and grow the brain.

REASONS TODAY'S KIDS ARE BORED AT SCHOOL, FEEL ENTITLED, HAVE LITTLE PATIENCE & FEW REAL FRIENDS

August 18, 2017 By Jacqueline

BY: VICTORIA PROODAY, OT
TRAIN THE BRAIN

You can make a difference in your child's life by training your child's brain so that your child will successfully function on social, emotional, and academic levels. Here is how:

1. Limit technology, and reconnect with your kids emotionally. Surprise them with flowers, share a smile, tickle them, put a love note in their backpack or under their pillow. Take them out for lunch on a school day, dance together, have pillow fights, family dinners, board game nights, go biking or go to outdoor walks with a flashlight in the evening.

2. Train delayed gratification. Make them wait!!! It is ok to have "I am bored" time - this is the first step to creativity.

Gradually increase the waiting time between "I want" and "I get" avoid technology use in cars and restaurants, and instead teach them waiting while talking and playing games.

3. Don't be afraid to set the limits. Kids need limits to grow happy and healthy!

Make a schedule for meal times, sleep times, and technology time. Think of what is GOOD for them, not what they WANT/DON'T WANT. They are going to thank you for that later on in life. Parenting is a hard job. You need to be creative to make them do what is good for them because, most of the time, that is the exact opposite of what they want.

Kids need breakfast and nutritious food. They need to spend time outdoors and go to bed at a consistent time in order to come to school available for learning the next day. Convert things that they don't like doing/trying into fun, emotionally stimulating games.

4. Teach your child to do monotonous work from early years as it is the foundation for future workability.

Folding laundry, tidying up toys, hanging clothes, unpacking groceries, setting the table, making lunch, unpacking their lunch box and making their bed.

Be creative. Initially make it stimulating and fun so that their brain associates it with something positive.

5. Teach social skills. Teach them the value in taking turns, sharing, losing/winning, compromising, complimenting others and using "please and thank you".

Congressional Award: GROWTH AND CHALLENGE

*Get money and a prestigious award for doing the things YOU ALREADY DO!

The Congressional Award offers recognition for the activities and development that is taking place in our youth.

There are four areas of activity: Volunteer Service, Personal Development, Physical Fitness, and Exploration/Expedition. Students register for a $15 fee (to be part of the state program), log hours in the four areas, and receive a tiered award. There are bronze, silver, and gold awards depending on the level of involvement, hours logged, and time in the program.

To be eligible, you must be between 13.5 and 24 years of age.

The Award is meant to be challenging. The focus is on goal setting and long term commitment to the goals.

This is a program at the state level and the national level with the most prestigious award being a $2000 scholarship and a trip to D.C. upon completion of the Gold.

For more details you can visit the national "program overview" page at: <http://congressionalaward.org/about/program-areas/>

State site: www.wcac.us

Students will be invited to a meeting which explains the program and given the option to sign up. Students will choose an advisor and start with discussing goals that are challenging. The registration form does require a parent signature.

For more information contact Dane Weaver or Chawna Wiechmann at the school.

HS Student Council

The Ten Sleep High School Student Council attended the WASC Conference earlier in November. Student Council President Lee Whitlock, Vice President Kinley Erickson, Reporter Aidan Searfoss, Secretary/ Treasurer Brian Rice, Senior Representative Byron Powell, Junior Representative Kelli Holiday, Sophomore Representative Zayne Cooper and Freshman Representative Payton Casteel attended the two day event. Advisor Dane Weaver and Middle School Advisor Sarah Shoopman were also in attendance. Presentations for school and community opportunities was a major focus at the convention. Keynote speaker, Tei Street, and many other service projects and workshops designed to help councils gain a better outlook on their role in their communities.

Mr. Hauptman in the Spotlight

Mr. Hauptman was recently interviewed about some of his likes and dislikes. We asked him if he could teach anywhere, where would it be. He replied that he would teach at Montana State University, for it is the home of the Bob Cats. Going along with his love of the Bob Cats comes the natural hate of the Grizzlies, meaning his least favorite colors are maroon and silver. Also, his favorite animal is a Bob Cat.

Mr. Hauptman said it is fun, crazy, exciting, and always entertaining to teach his students. When asked why he teaches the fourth and fifth graders he said that he likes that the kids still enjoy school but aren't too young to the point where you can't carry on a conversation.

Mr. Hauptman's favorite word is "erroneous", which means error or incorrect. It is a very fun word to say. Mr. Hauptman's least favorite technological devices are fidget spinners. His favorite sport to watch is baseball, and his favorite memory, or in this case, memories of the school year so far is poking fun at Katie Lowry.

Mr. Hauptman's least favorite subject is History of Wars, while his favorite book is "Blind Your Ponies". Mr. Hauptman's favorite superhero is, and I quote, "Mr. Sunshine on my Shoulders John Denver." When asked if he could do anything what would it be and why, he said that he would fly on an airplane with John Denver.

FFA News

The Ten Sleep FFA enjoyed a two day leadership conference recently. Freshman Aidan Searfoss, Payton Casteel, and Brian Rice attended FIRE. This part of the conference was designed to educate Freshman and Sophomores about leadership opportunities available to them within FFA as well as a chance to network with other chapters throughout the state.

Bryley Moore, Cole Anderson and Byron Powell attended CPC, which is geared towards the leadership roles of the chapter. They were involved in decision making that impacts the Wyoming FFA and had an opportunity to discuss issues that affect their chapters. Advisors Michelle Arnett and Jarred Bower attended also attended meetings. Overall, students thought the conference was a success and said they had returned with ideas to better their chapter.
