Getting Organized

Scholarship Process

- Key Components
 - Personal Information
 - Resume
 - Academic Information
 - Community Information
 - Essay
 - References
 - Transcripts
 - Due dates

Organization

- Based on the typical files for scholarships, you'll be creating a system for organization.
 - Folders for each component.
 - Folder for each scholarship.
 - Master list of all scholarships.
 - Calendar to track due dates.
- Use a flash drive, laptop, or collaborative drive.

ACTION ITEM

- Find two more scholarships that you can apply to.
- Begin your organization either in a collaborative workspace or on your hard drive.
 - If you use a collaborative drive, send your teacher an invitation.
 - If you set it up as folders on your laptop or a flash drive, grab a screenshot or take a picture with your phone and email to your teacher.
- Start your scholarship listing with your first four scholarship opportunities.
 - Use a document or a spreadsheet to track the important details.
 - Submit to your teacher as requested.

Scholarships

Keeping Track of Time

Scholarship Timelines

- Start this process as early as possible in your senior year.
- Some scholarships will start to have due dates as early as December.
- If you receive scholarships, you'll have a timeline for accepting and providing documentation of enrollment and final grades.

+ Planning Dates

- Plan on submitting early.
- Plan on gathering info from others even earlier. Don't expect references and transcripts at the last minute.
- Add these dates as goals in your calendar.
- You might choose to spend a long weekend getting everything submitted for multiple scholarships.

ACTION ITEM

- Find at least one more scholarship that you can apply to.
 - Add to your master list of scholarships.
 - Submit to your teacher as requested.
- Create your calendar that tracks the due dates of each of your five (or more) scholarships.
 - If you use a collaborative drive, send your teacher an invitation.
 - You can use a slide or document template. Submit to teacher as request.
