What is the Scottish Rite Foundation?

Even the seasons form a great circle in their changing, and always came back again to where they were. The life of a man is a circle from childhood to childhood and so it is in everything where power moves.

-Black Elk (1863-1950) Oglala Sioux Holy Man

Incorporated since 1955 and inaugurated with a substantial gift from The Supreme Council, the Scottish Rite Foundation was established for benevolent and educational purposes. It has, for instance, offered graduate fellowships in public school administration. From the 1920s, the Scottish Rite was active regionally in university dormitory construction, hospital building (focused on children, many of whom were polio patients), and deaf education.

In the 1950s a new field of service opened to the Scottish Rite Foundation, one well matched with the organization's precedent of helping children and young people. The diagnosis and treatment of children with aphasia, a condition sometimes caused by a brain injury, which inhibits the timely development of childhood language skills, fit perfectly the Foundation's purpose and goals. Other language learning dysfunctions among children, such as dyslexia and stuttering, are today being treated with the most up-to-date therapies in over 100 Scottish Rite clinics and programs.
