Mid-Year Teacher Survey Results	Feedback	<ul style="list-style-type: none">Managing Student Conduct:we just started with the paws and that is why the score reflects (no guidelines yet to reflect implementation), do we enforce rules throughout the building? (Were unsure),School Leadership:<ul style="list-style-type: none">Vision: everyone seems happy and we think it may have been skewed data, adjusting period, needed a break for winter, how is the PBL helping (we've tried this before), testing can get in the way of PBL, confusion on what the question shared vision means. Such a huge change this year and more guidelines and just adjusting is tough. Being held more accountable and having to get used to it. Getting used to committee meetings. Seeing positive results will help. We like that she is in it with us and we

		appreciate that. Need a little more knowledge on who we go to with MTSS help with next steps all of the time. Vision could go on the bottom or top of newsletters. (student centered teaching and learning). PLC time is not always felt like it's protected. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Accomplishments: Not having the treat cart, getting bucks makes us feel like we are seen and shout outs, and recognizing each other (people may not feel they got a shoutout and wanted it). Students from Mrs. Robinson's class wrote thank you notes to Mrs. Brown ● Community Support and Involvement: confusion with experts and service project (overwhelmed and confused) so there was a possible negative response. ● Concerns about PD: letters (case studies and they keep wanting more and more and maybe some professional development from last year affected the results (letters)). ● Technology: 2nd grade only has 6 ipads per class, they feel like they don't have enough technology (many of the ipads do not work), No wifi service in some rooms (light)-video will just stop and it's hard to get it ready done with so few ipads. (Andre is supposed to help, but he doesn't have a set schedule) ● Every school gives it in the district
