

Dear Parents,

I am sending home the Spring Subtraction Journal today. We have worked in these about once a week since the beginning of spring. We have been practicing many concepts when using these journals. We circled important numbers, * the “question asked” so we would remember to answer it, and then drew a picture to show our work. To finish each page off, we wrote a math sentence which is also called an equation. Once we used the important numbers in our equation, we marked it out up at the top. These are all strategies to help our campers be better test takers (I-step) when they get a little older. Please look through these journals with your camper and let them tell you about the strategies they have been using.

Enjoy,

Mrs. Myers
