

In order to emphasize that learning does not end with a chapter or unit test/quiz, and in an attempt to encourage you to learn from your mistakes, I am providing an opportunity for you to do test corrections for credit. However, you must follow the directions carefully and completely in order for your post-test work to be considered for credit.

- 1) No changes are permitted on your original test/quiz paper;
- 2) All corrections must be done on a separate piece of paper (you may use more than one sheet of paper, but all corrections must have a proper heading);
- 3) A proper heading must include:
 - a. Your name in the upper left
 - b. The date of the test/quiz in the upper right
 - c. Test/Quiz name followed by the word "Corrections" below your name
- 4) All problems for which you are doing corrections must be numbered as on the test;
- 5) All problems for which you are seeking credit must be completely redone from start to end! No exceptions! Rewrite the original problem, including any given information, diagrams, etc. The nature of the mistake you made on the test/quiz is irrelevant – you must redo the entire problem to obtain credit;
- 6) You are permitted to use your notes, textbook, etc.; You are not permitted to use any other sources or people!
- 7) Do not staple or clip the correction sheets to the test/quiz; if you use more than one correction sheet, you may staple them together, but not to the test/quiz;
- 8) You must hand in the original test/quiz with your corrections, place the corrections on top of the original test/quiz;
- 9) You must also have your original test/quiz signed by one of your parents;
- 10) Corrections are optional, but your parent signature is not optional.
- 11) Test Corrections will not be accepted if they are late.

For every 3 points corrected from your original test, you can earn 1 point back. For example, if you got a 45 out of 60 on a test, then you could correct 15 points worth of mistakes and earn 5 points back (now you have a 50 out of 60). If your corrections were not perfect or complete and you only did 9 points worth, then you would earn 3 points back (giving you a 48 out of 60).

I may have inadvertently left something off this list. If that is the case we will discuss it in class.

Remember...these corrections are intended to give you another opportunity to demonstrate your knowledge and understanding of the material covered in class.
