New Template: I copy & pasted all the info from the original doc into the new template below as best as I could. Anything in orange is missing. I also wasn't sure how you wanted to break up the People, Politics, and Issues or the Law & Justice unit so they are at the end of this doc and just need to be pasted into the right unit.

Summit Public Schools
Summit, New Jersey
Grade Level: 8th/ Content Area: Social Studies

Overview:

The 8th grade social studies program will provide students with a thorough, relevant, and engaging standards-based curriculum that focuses on United States government, civics, and current events from around the globe. It will emphasize problem-based learning experiences, 21st century skills, and literacy across the content areas in a supportive, challenging environment for all students.

The specific topics that will be covered are as follows:

Unit 1: The Purpose and Foundations of Government

Students will demonstrate knowledge regarding the five purposes that governments have, philosophies of government from Enlightenment thinkers, different forms of government from around the world, the ways in which government can be limited, and the principles of democracy.

Unit 2: The U.S. Constitution

Students will learn about the road that led to the Constitution being created, the issues that were discussed at the Constitutional Convention and the compromises they led to, the six principles that are embedded within the document, the structure of the document, the Bill of Rights and the amendment process, and the different types of constitutional powers.

Unit 3: The Legislative Branch

Students will analyze the structure of our Congress, how a bill is passed into law, congressional powers, and the requirements of representatives that are running for office.

Unit 4: The Executive Branch

Students will demonstrate knowledge of presidential powers, executive orders, the presidential Cabinet, and the requirements of running for office.

Unit 5: The Judicial Branch

Students will learn about our country's two court systems, the U.S. Supreme Court and landmark cases it has heard throughout history, the impact landmark cases have on current day America. They will also learn about the nine current Supreme Court justices and influential justices who have served in the past.

Unit 6: Elections and Political Parties

This unit will introduce students to politics in America. They will first go back in history to learn about the role and evolution of political parties in our country. They will understand the differences in beliefs held by Democrats and Republicans on key issues, the political spectrum, and the role that third parties can play in elections. They will learn about different election types, the Electoral College, the steps that are involved in running for President, campaign propaganda strategies that are used, the evolution of voting rights throughout history, and how to, themselves, one day become a registered voter.

Unit 7: Human Rights

This unit introduces students to the concepts contained in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. Students will begin by learning about the United Nations and its legal limitations, and will then analyze the UDHR. Special focus of this unit will include an interdisciplinary unit with language arts on the Holocaust. To introduce this interdisciplinary unit, students will first learn about various human rights issues that exist around the globe. They will then focus on genocide as they complete a culminating experience that connects to their ELA class content.

Unit 8: Economics and Personal Finance

Students will demonstrate knowledge regarding the basic principles of economics and the role of government and the economy. They will study consumerism, and the role they play as an American consumer of goods and services. They will end the unit by completing a personal finance project, which requires them to create a monthly budget given an assigned salary.

Unit 9: Local Government and the Role of Citizenship

The final unit will ask students to reflect on what they have learned throughout the course of the year by considering their local government and the role they play as a citizen of their community. They will learn about the structure of their local government, what ordinances are and how they are developed, and will understand the responsibilities of the members of the Common Council.

By its conclusion, the course content will provide a direct correlation with the LCJSMS Ryder's Challenge and Washington D.C. trip. The combination of these events and activities will round out the 8th grade experience dealing with civics in a modern world and provide students with authentic, hands-on experiences.

Length of Course: 36 weeks of active teaching

Course of Study

The pace of the course is as follows:

Unit 1: The Purpose and Foundations of Government	(3 weeks)
Unit 2: The U.S. Constitution	(3 weeks)
Unit 3: The Legislative Branch	(3 weeks)
Unit 4: The Executive Branch	(3 weeks)
Unit 5: The Judicial Branch	(4 weeks)
Unit 6: Elections and Political Parties	(4 weeks)
Unit 7: Human Rights	(4 weeks)
Unit 8: Economics and Personal Finance	(4 weeks)
Unit 9: Local Government and the Role of Citizenship	(4 weeks)

Unit 1: The Purpose and Foundations of Government (3 Weeks)

Big Ideas: Course Objectives/Content Statement(s)

- In this unit, students will examine why governments exist - what purposes do they serve and why do we need them? Next they will learn about different Enlightenment thinkers, their contrasting ideas about what government should look like, and the role their philosophies play in the current structure of our government. Furthermore, do these philosophies still apply to government today? Finally, students will analyze different forms of government that exist around the world before taking a closer look at the core principles of what we will focus on for the rest of the school year - democracy.

Essential Questions

What provocative questions will foster inquiry, understanding, and transfer of learning?

1. Why do governments exist and what is their purpose?
2. What were some of the different ideas that existed about the best way to structure government and what it should look like?
3. What are there different types of governments that exist and what do they look like?
4. What are the core principles of democracy?
5. What are some current events that are going on right now and how do they connect to what we've learned in class?
 - a. This will vary each year depending on current events at that time. An example topic that was used in 2021 - Why did the U.S. try to set up a democratic government in Afghanistan? What is currently going on in Afghanistan, who are the Taliban, and what government is in place?

Enduring Understandings

What will students understand about the big ideas?

Students will understand that:

- 4 Theories of how government began:
 - Force Theory
 - Divine Right Theory
 - Evolutionary Theory
 - Social Contract Theory
- Government has 5 basic purposes: Protection, Maintenance of Public Order, Resolution of Social Conflicts, Economic Stability, and Public Services
- Enlightenment thinkers, such as Thomas Hobbes and John Locke, had different ideas about what government should look like ("Social Contract", natural rights, etc.)
- Our government was built on ideas that were discussed by these important thinkers
- Different forms of government exist around the world
- These government types include: monarchies, dictatorships, democracies (direct, indirect, parliamentary system), oligarchies, theocracies, and more
- Anarchy is when no government exists at all
- A democracy is a government for the people
- Citizens participate in government and use something called rule of law to ensure that things are fair
- Ideas from both Hobbes and Locke can be seen in how democracies function
- The U.S. uses a representative democracy

Unit 2: The U.S. Constitution
Big Ideas: Course Objectives/ Content Standard(s) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • In this unit, students will examine the founding document and the nation's supreme law of the land. Students will investigate some of the key events that led to the creation of the United States Constitution. After examining the 6 principles, students will begin to unpack the structure and how this document shapes our government. To conclude the unit, students will begin to develop their own views on the Constitution, the Amendments, and the role this document plays in our lives today.

Unit 3: The Legislative Branch

Big Ideas: Course Objectives/ Content Standard(s)

- In this unit, students will learn about the lawmaking power that is given to Congress. The unit will also focus on the structure of congress and the bill making process. To further expand on this topic, students will debate bills currently making their way through congress.

Essential Questions

What provocative questions will foster inquiry, understanding, and transfer of learning?

1. How is Congress organized and is that the best way to represent the constituents of their district?
2. What purpose does the Legislative Branch serve?
3. How does a bill become law?

Enduring Understandings

What will students understand about the big ideas?

Students will understand that:

- Congress is a bicameral legislature having two bodies-House of Representatives and Senate
- The negotiation of the Great Compromise at the Constitutional Convention is reflected in our bicameral legislature
 - State representation varies in the House and the Senate
- The purpose of the Legislative Branch is to create laws that best fulfill the needs of their constituents.
- There are different ways that a bill can become a law.
- Legislative Powers- Collect taxes, borrow money, regulate trade with other nations, make laws about naturalization, coin money, set standards of weight and measures, establish post offices and highways, issue patents and copyrights, declare war, make laws for the District of Columbia
- Non Legislative Powers- Elect a President/Vice President if no candidate gets 270 Electoral Votes, confirm appointments and treaties made by the Executive orders have the force of law, although they are not technically laws (like those that are passed by Congress). Executive Order 10730 was issued by Dwight D. Eisenhower in an attempt to desegregate schools following the decision that was made in Brown vs. Board of Education. ● Today, the President's Cabinet is made up of 15 department heads. Every President in U.S. history has used some form of Cabinet, although they used to be much smaller than they are today. ● Impeachment is the act of charging a government official with wrongdoing. It's commonly misunderstood that impeachment means removal from office, but it does not. The impeachment process begins in the House of Representatives and moves to a trial in the Senate.

Unit 5: The Judicial Branch

Big Ideas: Course Objectives/ Content Statement(s)

- In this unit, students will learn about the judicial branch of government. They'll begin the unit by analyzing the structure of our two court systems. Next, they'll consider the differences between civil and criminal law. Finally, they'll spend most of the unit learning about the Supreme Court, and the landmark cases it has heard throughout history that have shaped American society.

Essential Questions

What provocative questions will foster inquiry, understanding, and transfer of learning?

1. How is the U.S. court system structured?
2. What is the difference between civil and criminal law?
3. What is the U.S. Supreme Court and what does it do?
4. How many justices does it have? What are the requirements and term lengths of justices? What kinds of cases does the Supreme Court hear?
5. Who were some influential justices that served on the Supreme Court throughout history?
6. Is the Supreme Court a truly non-political institution?
7. How does the Supreme Court make decisions on cases?
8. What are landmark cases? What are some landmark cases that the Supreme Court has heard throughout the course of history?
9. What are some current events that are going on right now and how do they connect to what we've learned in class?
 - a. This will vary each year depending on current events at that time.

Enduring Understandings

What will students understand about the big ideas?

Students will understand that:

- The U.S. has two court systems - federal and state. Each system is structured in a similar way, but they hear different kinds of cases.
- Criminal law cases involve a citizen that broke a government law, and therefore committed a crime. In these cases, the government prosecutes the defendant. The consequence is often a fine, jail time, and sometimes even death. In civil cases, two citizens have experienced conflict with one another, and need a third party to resolve the issue. These cases involve a plaintiff and a defendant, and usually they result in payment for damages.
- The U.S. Supreme Court is the highest court in America, meaning it has ultimate legal authority.
- Marbury vs. Madison, a prominent landmark case, established that the Supreme Court has the power of judicial review.
- It is made up of nine justices - eight associate justices and one chief justice. The President appoints Supreme Court justices

	and they are confirmed by the Senate. The term is for life, meaning that many justices either resign or die after serving for many years. The current justices are the following: Chief Justice John Roberts, Clarence Thomas, Samuel Alito, Sonia Sotomayor, Elena Kagan, Neil Gorsuch, Brett Kavanaugh, Amy Coney Barrett, and Katanji Brown Jackson. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Some influential justices that have served throughout history include: Thurgood Marshall, Sandra Day O'Connor, and Ruth Bader Ginsburg ● The Supreme Court, and the justices that serve, are not meant to be a political institution <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Controversies surrounding this ○ Imperfections of the Supreme Court ● The Supreme Court often hears cases that raise controversial constitutional questions. ● The Supreme Court writes opinions <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Different types: majority vs. dissenting ● Landmark cases studied <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Plessy v. Unit 6: Elections and Political Parties

Big Ideas: Course Objectives/ Content Statement(s)

- In this unit, students will study the different types of elections that our country has, with a focus on the presidential election. They will learn about how the Electoral College functions, and why it is controversial. Students will learn about the evolution of political parties in America, and our two-party system. They will analyze the platforms of the Democratic and Republican parties, learning about the key differences that exist between them on several key issues. While students will learn about the tension that exists today in American politics, they will also discuss and brainstorm different ways that opposing ideologies can negotiate and work together.

Essential Questions

What provocative questions will foster inquiry, understanding, and transfer of learning?

Enduring Understandings

What will students understand about the big ideas?

1. How does voting give citizens' a voice?

Students will understand that:

<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 2. How do candidates and political campaigns organize to influence voters? 3. What are the components of a political campaign and how do factors, including social/political issues, polling, advertising, endorsements, primaries and caucuses, and speeches affect the outcome of campaigns? 4. What are the two main political parties in the United States? 5. What is the role of the third party? 6. How should campaigns be financed and what restrictions should be put in place if any? 7. Should the Electoral College be Abolished? 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Voting is the responsibility of every citizen and the main way to get their voice heard. Voting is the best way to influence our government and create a thriving democracy ● Depending on where you live may mean that there are different voting requirements. ex: voter ID laws, mail-in ballots, same day registration ● Political campaigns spend a large amount of money on campaigning. How they do this can vary from candidate to candidate. Polling often dictates how the campaign decides to allocate their funds. ● The Democratic and Republican parties are the two main parties in the United States. Typically these parties align with liberal or conservative values. ● There are many political parties but often do not influence elections. They can influence the two main parties to adopt some of their beliefs. ● Campaign financing is a very complex, controversial topic. Both political parties compile millions of dollars in donations. For the private citizen there is a limit to how much you can donate to a campaign. There are ways around this and often creates a lot of questions into the financing of these large campaigns. ● There are several political parties in the United States and each represents a different view on how the government should function. These views are directly reflected in each party's platform ranging from conservatism to liberalism. ● There are several factors that affect a successful campaign. Students will be able to identify and demonstrate how these factors affect both the design, focus and outcome of a campaign for public office. ●

Unit 8: Economics and Personal Finance

Big Ideas: Course Objectives/ Content Standard(s)

- In this unit, students will demonstrate knowledge regarding the basic principles of economics and the effect on the United States economy, along with its effect on the global markets as well. In addition, students will learn about personal financial literacy and how skills can affect earning power.

Essential Questions

What provocative questions will foster inquiry, understanding, and transfer of learning?

1. What is consumption, price, money, supply, demand and interest rates and how they affect our economy?
2. What decisions are required for an effective personal finance budget plan?
3. What is economic growth and its benefits and what may interfere with economic growth.

Enduring Understandings

What will students understand about the big ideas?

Students will understand that:

- Supply and demand are the backbone of our economic system and their interaction is the basis of our economy. Both consumers and sellers determine supply and demand for all products. As supply or demand moves, both consumers and sellers play a pivotal role in this action.
- Personal finance is the budgeting of income based upon a given salary of an occupation. Students will understand the differences between needs and wants and comprehend how these choices affect their budgets.
- The variety of possible investments and the impact that savings and investment has on individuals and the U.S. economy.
- How economic growth is facilitated in a nation and the impact of economic growth has on individual households and the world economy.

Unit 4 - Law and Justice

NJSLA:

6.3.8.CivicsDP.2:

Make a claim based on evidence to determine the extent and the limitations of First Amendment rights

(e.g., U.S. Supreme Court decisions).

6.3.8.CivicsDP.3:

Use historical case studies and current events to explain why due process is essential for the protection of individual rights and maintenance of limited government.

6.3.8.CivicsPR.5:

Engage in simulated democratic processes (e.g., legislative hearings, judicial proceedings, elections) to understand how conflicting points of view are addressed in a democratic society.

Big Ideas: Course Objectives / Content Statement(s)

Students will learn the fundamentals of the United States Justice System while researching a current court case and preparing a Mock Trial. Students will synthesize their law research to design and execute all the essential elements of a court case and demonstrate their learning through the Mock Trial process.

Essential Questions

What provocative questions will foster inquiry, understanding, and transfer of learning?

Enduring Understandings
