Re: Summer Academies for Pharmacy and Physician Assistant

Greetings from the University of Charleston! I am writing to share an exciting opportunity for any of your students who are considering a career as a pharmacist or physician assistant.

As we both know, students often limit their career aspirations to what they have seen directly through their family and friends. While they may have the aptitude to excel in health care fields, they may not be considering them. We are excited to offer a multi-day, hands-on experience for students to explore the professions of pharmacy and/or physician assistant during our 2020 UC Academy Week.

From June 16-18, students will explore the history of pharmacy, work in a mock pharmacy, practice patient consultations, and more. Then, from June 18-19, they will learn about PA—from specialties in the field to CPR and suturing. All meals will be provided throughout the week, and students will stay on campus in one of our residence halls.

Students can attend one or both camps for a low early bird rate which will include meals, housing, and a camp t-shirt. Students who register by April 30 will pay $99 for one camp, or $149 for both experiences. Space is limited, so students are encouraged to register early at www.ucwv.edu/academy.

I hope you will encourage your students to attend and will display the enclosed flyer in an area that will receive a lot of student attention. This is an incredible opportunity for students to learn, make new connections, and discover whether a career in pharmacy or PA is right for them.

Sincerely,

Beth Wolfe, Ed.D.
