

What is the Medical Term?

“FART”
OR “FLATULENCE”

What is the Medical Term for?

“canker sore” or “mouth ulcers”
are grey-white pits with a red boarder in the soft tissue lining
the mouth

What is the Medical Term for?

“cold sores” or “fever blisters” are blister like sores on the lips and adjacent facial tissue that are caused by the oral herpes simplex virus type 1

What is the Medical Term for?

“dry mouth” is the lack of adequate saliva due to diminished secretion of the
salivary glands

What is the Medical Term for?

“Pooping” or “Bowel Movements”
emptying of the large intestine

What is the Medical Term for?

involuntary grinding or clenching
of the teeth that usually occurs
during sleep

What is the Medical Term for?

“tooth decay” or “cavity” an infectious disease caused by bacteria that destroys the enamel and dentin of the tooth.

What is the Medical Term for?

inflammation of the gums

What is the Medical Term for?

“bad breath” is an unpleasant odor coming from the mouth that can be caused by dental diseases or respiratory or gastric disorders

What is the Medical Term for?

defined as having bowel movements fewer than 3 times a week. Stools are usually hard, dry, small in size and difficult to eliminate

What is the Medical Term for?

“heartburn” the burning sensation caused by the return of acidic stomach content into the esophagus

What is the Medical Term for?

“stools” solid body wastes
expelled through the rectum
and out the anus

What is the Medical Term for?

condition in which fluid loss exceeds fluid intake and
disrupts the bodies normal
electrolyte balance

What is the Medical Term for?

“indigestion” pain or discomfort
in digestion

What is the Medical Term for?

“vomiting” reflex rejection of the stomach content through the mouth

What is the Medical Term for?

the act of burping or belching or raising gas orally from the stomach

What is the Medical Term for?

“Farting” or passing of gas out through the rectum and anus

What is the Medical Term for?

the urge to vomit

What is the Medical Term for?

vomiting of blood

What is the Medical Term for?

the return of swallowed food into
the mouth

What is the Medical Term for?

“colon cancer” often first manifest itself in polyps in the colon

What is the Medical Term for?

inability to control the excretion
of feces

What is the Medical Term for?

the presence of gallstones in the
gallbladder or bile ducts

What is the Medical Term for?

“chewing” breaking food down into smaller pieces, mixes with saliva and prepares it to be swallowed

What is the Medical Term for?

a mass of food that has been chewed and ready to be swallowed