Webb Street Student Visits the Helen Keller Institute

In March, Jack Barker a transition student at Webb Street School, went to the Helen Keller Institute for the Deaf and Deaf-Blind in Sands Point, New York. He was accompanied by his family, a representative from Holy Angels, and one of his teachers from Webb Street. He worked on job skills such as stocking magazines and a soda machine, wiping down tables, and washing dishes. Jack also learned to use communication cards to buy candy from a local store and buy himself a meal at Smashburger! In addition, he worked with assistive technology specialists, Orientation & Mobility therapists, and teachers for the visually impaired. At the end of the week, everyone on Jack's team got together and created goals to help Jack in the transition process from Webb Street to the workplace and beyond. Jack had great time meeting new people, trying out new jobs, and hanging out with family and friends!

Election Day: May 8th

On the ballot there is a $250 million School Bond Referendum for Gaston County Schools. We encourage everybody to please find your way to the polls and show your support for the School Bond and the quarter cent sales tax that funds it. This bond will be used to fund critical repairs in all of our county's schools as well as build new schools in high growth areas to keep our schools from getting over-crowded. In order for our community to grow, prosper and stay competitive to attract better jobs we MUST make the investment in education.
