

This was Sketchy MacThistle

Your recently deceased great, great uncle from an extremely obscure (and probably fake) familial link

Uncle Sketchy MacThistle was an eccentric and wealthy man. He had many, many, many nieces and nephews. Including everyone in this class! In his will, he left property (homes) to each and every one of you.

These homes are yours to keep TAX FREE (remember... his name is SKETCHY MacThistle... don't call the IRS) along with ONE BILLION DOLLARS (yes, he was really sketch) if you will spend one week in the house immediately.

The catch?? And yes, there is always a catch. You have to agree to this. Sight unseen. Are you in???

(Yes, yes you are!)

YOUR TASK

When you entered the classroom this morning, you were given a key. This key unlocks the door to your new home.

You will come up to the front of the classroom to receive your new home.

Your job is to write a letter to Uncle Sketchy's lawyer Frieda MacFrieda, Esq., describing your week in the your new home and how happy you are to be there. Embellish as much as you like.

The one caveat... you must write glowingly about your new home*. No matter what. You must demonstrate that you LOVE your new home in order to get ONE BILLION DOLLARS.

We will share at the end of class!

*honesty is neither warranted nor expected.
